Gas South offers two-for-one deals on Braves tickets; opportunity to win seats to big pennant race games

As the first place Braves dominate the 2010 season, Gas South helps fans across Georgia enjoy the action

(Atlanta – August 6, 2009) – As the Atlanta Braves continue to dominate the National League Eastern Division, Gas South is making it easy for Braves fans to see their team in action at Turner Field with exclusive ticket giveaways and discounts. As the official natural gas provider of the Atlanta Braves, Gas South is giving away three special ticket packages and offering two-for-one ticket pricing on weekday games through the end of the regular season. The offers are available to all Georgia residents by visiting www.Gas-South.com/Braves.

“All of us at Gas South are huge fans of the Atlanta Braves and couldn’t be more excited to see them on top of the NL East,” said Kevin Greiner, CEO of Gas South. “And as a sponsor of the Braves, we want to be sure that fans from across Georgia have the opportunity to enjoy the excitement of Braves baseball and cheer them on to the playoffs.”

Braves fans can visit the Gas South website to register to win one of three exclusive ticket packages. Package One includes four tickets and a parking pass as the Braves host the L.A. Dodgers on Saturday, August 14, with a special field visit during the Braves’ warm-ups and batting practice. Package Two includes throwing out the first pitch when the Braves host the Florida Marlins on August 28, as well as four game tickets and a parking pass. Package Three guarantees to get fans close to the action with four dugout level tickets (and parking) for games during August and September.

Gas South is also offering two-for-one discount tickets for all Braves home games (excluding Friday and Saturday games) through the end of the regular season. Fans can take advantage of the savings by entering the promotion code “GASSOUTH” when ordering tickets online through the Gas South Braves page.

Gas South’s partnership with the Braves extends beyond ticket discounts. Last season, Gas South debuted the ‘Bring the Heat’ pyrotechnics display at Turner Field with a large sign in right field that shoots fireworks each time a Braves pitcher strikes out an opposing batter; the display quickly became a fan favorite.

“Gas South is proud to partner with the Atlanta Braves to enhance the fan experience at Turner Field with a fireworks display – and we know the fans like it too,” added Greiner. “We hope Braves fans across Georgia will visit our website and register to win these special ticket packages and go cheer the Braves on in person.”

When visiting the Gas South website, Braves fans can also learn about other exclusive offers available to Gas South customers, compare Gas South’s affordable rates plans, sign up for service, and learn about the highly popular Pay-As-You-Go program developed exclusively for credit-challenged consumers.
